U.S. BOMBERS MAKE FIRST RAID ON ROME

Yanks Take Caltanissetta After 8-Mile Dash

BRITISH DRIVE TO OUTSKIRTS OF CATANIA

S Advance Puts Troops Almost Half-Way Across Island.

By The Associated Press

HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 19—The U. S. Army has captured Agrigenta, almost half way across the island's mid-section on Sicily's southern coast, in a lightning smash to split the island, battle reports from headquarters said today. Other gains were gained all along the front.

Capture of the powerful Mediterranean port turned for the first time against Rome, the seat of Fascism, was bombed war and supply centers in and around the Italian capital, Canadian, British and American troops drove forward on other sections of the Sicilian front.

Driving up toward the Italian mainland on most of Gen. Sir Bernard Law Montgomery's Eighth army pushed relentlessly into the defenses protecting Catania on the island's east coast, and moved closer to that keystone of the enemy's position in all central Mediterranean Sicily.

British Near Catania

Powerful pounding British Eighth army forces hanged against the outskirts of flaming Catania today after smashing one of the most formidable enemy defense positions before the big eastern Sicilian port.

A report relayed from an allied command post last night said this enemy position fell only after the most desperate resistance yet encountered by the invading allied armies. A third of the island has been overrun by allied troops.

Sources here considered it probable the bulk of the German troops in Sicily were engaged in a fierce developing battle. These forces officially estimated at 60,000 were well equipped with heavy tanks and smaller vehicles.

American troops on the western battle line, meanwhile, battled gains in two main spearheads—one from captured Agrigenta and Porto Empedocle on the southern flank and another from the center toward Enna and Nicosia.

The central thrust drove to a point 22 miles inland, throwing back a German counterattack in the center near Barrafranca.

Two possible objectives remain, Catania a hub for all central Sicily 31 miles to the northeast and Caltanissetta, important highway junctions city 11 miles to the north.

Americans Press On

Following the tactical success in the capture of Agrigenta, American patrols pushed northward west of this ancient city and a new group of well-placed roads, the use of which would further hamper transportation.

TWO NAZI SHIPS HIT BY BOMBS

RAF Attacks Vessels in Channel and Dstroy Eight Enemy Planes.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 19 — RAF bombers and fighters destroyed eight enemy aircraft and damaged two enemy vessels in attacks last night on Nazi airport facilities in France, and shipping off the Dutch coast, the air ministry announced today.

Swift mosquito planes on intruder patrols over northwest Germany and enemy - occupied territory attacked and damaged 10 locomotives and bombed railway targets near Dieppe.

Two enemy fighters were knocked down as Typhoon bombers with fighter escort blasted the Abbeville airfield in France and two others were destroyed by Mustangs on patrol off the Dutch coast, the announcement said.

An additional four fighter planes were reported shotdown in an attack on an enemy convoy by coastal command Beaufighters supported by Spitfires and Typhoons. His were registered on two units of the convoy.

Eight British planes failed to return from the Sunday operations.

In similar raids Saturday night, British fighter planes swept over France, Holland and Belgium, ripping up railway targets and airfields and attacking shipping with the loss of one plane.

The Berlin radio also reported "nuisance flights" over Germany Saturday night by allied planes.

Britain-based American Flying Fortresses pounded targets in the Amsterdam area by daylight Saturday in the first U. S. raid on that locality. The Eighth U. S. Air Force listed two bombers as lost. The Germans asserted 10 were shot down.

BERLIN EXPLOITS BOMBING OF ROME

By The Associated Press

The Berlin radio, striving to exploit the allied bombing of Rome, lost little time today in broadcasting alleged Vatican reaction.

In a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press at a time when the Rome radio was limiting itself to the Italian high command's announcement that Rome had been bombed and damage was being ascertained, the Berlin radio said in a dispatch datelined Vatican City:

"Vatican and all clerical circles are greatly astounded at and disgusted with the enemy's attack on Rome Monday which, contrary to all assurances given by the United States and Britain, has destroyed many residential houses in Rome.

"The Pope felt considerable disappointment in the attitude of the allies when he observed fires in the city, it was learned from Vatican circles."

There was nothing from any other source to support this axis account.

There was nothing from any authorized or trustworthy source to show what the Vatican's reaction was.

ROUEN FIRE REPORTED

LONDON, July 19 — The Paris radio, in a broadcast recorded by Reuters, reported today a great fire was raging in the French city of Rouen and damage already had ran into millions of francs. It did not give the cause of the fire.

Green Camp Woman Drowns in Gravel Pit

Mrs. Robert W. Dickason Overcome After Laying Aside Inflated Tube; Friend Pulled Under Attempting Rescue.

Mrs. Robert W. Dickason, 26, employed in a Marion war factory of Green Camp was drowned in a gravel pit swimming hole near there early yesterday afternoon.

She had just laid aside an inflated inner tube which she had been using, and was attempting to swim without its aid when the drowning occurred.

Mrs. Dickason, accompanied by Miss Ava Wolfinger of Green Camp, had gone to the M. B. Weston gravel pit on the Zieg road, west of Green Camp, about noon yesterday. For some time Mrs. Dickason and Miss Wolfinger were swimming in the water, both using inner tubes to support themselves in the water. Finally Mrs. Dickason started into the water without the inner tube.

Miss Wolfinger said she called to her, "Virginia, don't go into the water without the inner tube." She replied she was not going out very far and wanted to see if she could swim without the aid of the tube.

Attempts Rescue

Miss Wolfinger was standing on the bank, her back to the water, when she heard Mrs. Dickason scream. Miss Wolfinger rushed to her aid, extending her hand, which Mrs. Dickason grasped. Then Mrs. Dickason started to struggle and seized Miss Wolfinger by the hair and her bathing suit. She pulled Miss Wolfinger under the water twice. Then her grasp loosened and she caught Miss Wolfinger by the feet. When she released her grip Miss Wolfinger was barely able to reach the bank.

Miss Wolfinger ran to the nearby home of Donald DeLong for help. Mr. DeLong summoned Charles Carr, who lives on the other side of the Zieg road.

Mr. Carr dived into the water several times trying to locate the body. He finally found it in about eight feet of water. When Carr was unable to raise it to the surface, Mr. DeLong went to the William Carr home and obtained a garden rake and a rope. Mr. and Mrs. Carr tied the rope around Charles, who used an inner tube as a life preserver, and with the rake caught hold of Mrs. Dickason's bathing suit and pulled the body to the bank.

Resuscitation Attempted

Artificial respiration was started by Charles Carr; in a short time he was assisted by Kenneth Jerew, Kenneth Howell, Paul Johnson, Ernie Swisner and Mrs. Grace Disterdick. However, the body had been in the water about 30 minutes and their attempts to revive her were futile. It is thought death occurred between 1 and 1:30.

Sheriff J. W. Harruff and Deputies Roy Retterer, Millard Baldwin and Ross McGinnis were called and assisted with the respiration treatment and in handling the large crowd that had gathered quickly.

The S. R. Sanders ambulance from Richwood was summoned, also Dr. R. T. Gray of Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wolfinger, parents of Miss Ava Wolfinger, were called. Mr. Wolfinger notified his brother Deputy Marshal Floyd Wolfinger, to take a boat and grapling hook to the gravel pit. However when Deputy Wolfinger arrived the body had been recovered.

Leaves 8-Year-Old Son

Mrs. Dickason was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Lauer of the Keller pike. She was born July 17, 1917, at the family home on the Deadwood pike, Green Camp township. She was married to Robert W. Dickason on July 29, 1933. Besides her husband and parents she leaves a son, Bing Crosby Dickason.

For several months Mrs. Dickason has been the attendant at Dickason's filling station in Green Camp while her husband has been employed in a Marion war factory.

Funeral services will be Wednesday at 4 p. m. fast time at the Reformed church. Rev. Edgar Gunther, pastor, will be in charge. Burial will be in Green Camp cemetery. The body was removed to the Lauer farm home on the Keller pike, where friends may call until the funeral hour.

J. V. DYE OF GALION KILLED BY TRAIN

Mt. Gilead Factory Department Head Victim of Crash.

Special to The Star

GALION, July 19—Judson V. Dye, 218 South Boston street, manager of the clear flow filter department of the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co. at Mt. Gilead, was killed instantly at 1:10 a. m. Sunday when the car he was driving was struck by a westbound Pennsylvania passenger train at the crossing three miles north of Galion on the North Market Street road.

Mr. Dye was going to his summer home at Lake Galion when the accident occurred. There was a freight train on the siding. The crossing is protected by a watchman. An inquest is being conducted. The car was demolished and parts were strewn for 700 to 800 feet. The Beck funeral home at Crestline was called where the body was taken and later identified by a brother, Lewis Dye, Don Dye, a nephew, and Ralph Thomas, brother-in-law. The body was then brought to the Snyder Funeral home in this city.

Mr. Dye was born in Galion, Sept. 24, 1887, the son of Samuel A. and Rebecca (Ness) Dye. He was united in marriage on Aug. 17, 1910 to Ethel Kincaid, who survives, together with a son, Earl Dye, at home. His mother, Mrs. Rebecca Dye survives together with the following brothers and sisters, Harry C. Dye, Galion; Mrs. Fred Christman, Crown Point, Indiana; Roy A. Dye, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Lewis C. Dye, Mt. Gilead; Mrs. Ralph Thomas, Galion, and Kenneth C. Dye, Columbus. Mr. Dye was a first

Bowles Accepts Post As OPA General Manager

By The Associated Press

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19—Chester Bowles of Essex, Connecticut OPA administrator, has accepted the post of general manager of the national OPA, offered him a week ago by Administrator Prentiss Brown.

Bowles, who has been on a vacation cruise, learned of the offer only last evening when he docked at Hyannis, Mass., and immediately informed his office here that he would be glad to accept. Bowles, 42, is an advertising executive in private life.

More Gasoline in East, Less in West Is Prospect Soon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—More gasoline for the starved east, less for the west than it has been getting, and not-so-good news all around on tires was ordained today for the world's greatest motoring nation.

Completion of the huge pipeline from Texas to the east coast scheduled for today, coincided with these developments:

1—Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who also served as petroleum administrator, announced gasoline rationing for the driving public would be equalized over most of the nation, meaning more fuel for the east, and a reduction for the midwest and the southwest. No change was indicated for the west coast.

2—The office of price administration (OPA), acting at the request of Rubber Director William Jeffers, banned sale of new tires for spares for the next few months — no specific date given. Excepting firemen, doctors and others dealing with emergencies, OPA said new, used or recapped tires would be denied motorists who have four sound tires, plus one that can be made to serve as an emergency spare. Jeffers said he was striving to make the present stocks last until synthetic casings can be turned out in sufficient quantity.

3—OPA also notified drivers their B, C, E and R gas coupons hereafter would be good until renewals are issued, regardless of the expiration dates. This move was made to encourage drivers to conserve their coupons without fear the stamps would become invalid. B books outside of the east will be issued henceforth on a three-month basis. Individual needs will be adjusted by the ration boards by tearing out coupons not used in the three-month period, rather than giving each bookholder the same number of stamps but varying the length of time in which the coupons must be used. The east's four-month tenure of B books will be continued.

Eastern motorists now receive less than one and one-half gallons a week on an A card. In other areas, the card is worth four gallons a week. Eastern A card holders are under a pleasure-driving ban, as well, though OPA Administrator Prentiss Brown has declared several times he would like to see that ban lifted.

The American Automobile association filed a protest with Brown that OPA has what it called a "snooper army" and asserted motorists were being "harassed on an unprecedented scale."

MATHEW D. PORTER IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Former County Home Head Dies After Long Illness.

Mathew D. Porter, 67, of 202 South Prospect street, superintendent of the Marion county home for 20 years from December, 1921, through June of 1941, died Saturday at 7:15 p. m. in the Marion City hospital. He had been ill for the last two and one-half years and was admitted to the hospital on July 1.

Mr. Porter was an honorary life member of the Marion Lodge of Elks. Lodge services will be conducted at 9 o'clock tonight at the M. H. Gunder & Sons funeral home on West Center street. Karl W. Konkle, chaplain of the lodge, will be in charge of the services.

He was a former member of the Marion Rotary club. He withdrew his membership in the service club in 1941 when ill health forced him to resign as superintendent of the county home.

After retiring as head of the home he went to Cincinnati to live with his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Ward. He remained there up until the time he was admitted to the hospital.

He was born Sept. 5, 1875, in Green Camp township to the late William N. and Mary E. Ball Porter, both natives of Marion county. April 3, 1901 he was married to Miss Ina Court who survives. Other survivors besides the wife and daughter are one brother, W. C. Porter of Lansing, Mich., and the following sisters, Mrs. Fred Morrison of Curtis court, Mrs. J. C. Cole of Grand avenue, Mrs. John McNeal of Forest street, Mrs. W. D. Terpany of Elgin, Ore., and Mrs. Frank E. Farrant and Miss Ruth Porter, both of East Center street.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the Gunder funeral home with Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in charge. Private services will be held at the grave side at the Marion cemetery.

LIQUOR RATION UNCHANGED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, July 19—The ration unit for bottled liquor purchased at retail stores in Ohio will remain unchanged—one quart or fifth, or two pints, per person—During the July 26-Aug. 21 ration period, an official source indicated today. The liquor department will announce the unit Thursday.

1944 VICTORY SEEN BY G.O.P.

Spangler Issues Statement Calling President, "Candidate Roosevelt."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 19—Ten years a bridesmaid in presidential politics, the Republican party came out flatly today with the forecast that it would be the bride in the 1944 elections.

In a seven-page statement refuting to President Roosevelt as "Candidate Roosevelt," Chairman Harrison Spangler of the GOP national committee made the prediction of Republican victory on what he called the strength of "polls of public opinion."

Spangler said the election would be decided in the northern states. Yet, declared the "solid south" was not so solid for the Democrats as they usually reckon.

These "private polls," said Spangler, show the GOP has gained three per cent among the ranks of labor, and five per cent in the rural areas of the north.

Spangler put it this way:

There are 21,000,000 labor votes in the north. A three per cent gain for the Republicans means a gain of 630,000 voters. A rise of five per cent would call 700,000 votes more than before from the 14,000,000 listed as the farm vote.

Subtract this gain from President Roosevelt's 2,319,752 popular majority in the successful third term bid in 1940, and the Republicans would have an edge of 210,748.

A five per cent gain also is seen by Spangler from the 15,000,000 voters among the professions, small businessmen, and miscellaneous non - classified groups, which would make the GOP a winner by 1,710,000.

OIL INDUSTRY PRAISED AT "BIG INCH" FINISH

Jones Pays Tribute to Builders of Pipeline.

By The Associated Press

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., July 19—Government officials paid tribute to the oil industry for a tremendous job well done at the opening of the "Big Inch" pipeline today but warned that it was primarily a military facility and not intended to provide gasoline for pleasure driving.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, in a message read for him by Chairman C. B. Henderson of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., told the celebrants:

"Those who have done this job have fought every inch of the way to get the line built in the shortest possible time. * * * almost every foot of the 1,475 miles had to be done the hard way, but that is the way in which the oil industry is accustomed to work."

Jones, whose RFC financed the $100,000,000 job, was prevented by laryngitis from attending the opening in person.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, petroleum administrator for war, emphasized the vastness of military oil requirements and reiterated his opposition to use of gasoline for pleasure driving.

A stream of oil stemming from Longview, Tex., 1,341 miles away, surged steadily eastward through southern Ohio, flowing three miles an hour toward its first goal—the giant refineries that dot the Atlantic seaboard.

ITALIAN MORALE IN SICILY SAGGING

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 19—Almost incredible first hand reports of broken morale among Italians in Sicily poured in at allied headquarters today.

Italian troops were said to be surrendering in organized units.

Civilians continued to show genuine joy over the arrival of allied armies.

An allied officer who read the proclamation of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander announcing the determination of the allies to smash fascism was hoisted on the shoulder of a Sicilian crowd and carried about in triumph in one town.

The people shouted, "this is the day of our deliverance."

A British officer who returned after six days in Sicily said the people themselves were tearing down the symbols of the fascist party.

They expressed bitter feeling against the Germans whom they blamed for the shortage of food and clothing.

White bread, brought by the invading armies, was said by Sicilians to be the first they had eaten in eight years.

They appeared relieved when informed that forcing youths into forced labor battalions by invading armies was a Nazi practice, not an allied practice.

ALL-AMERICAN FORCE BLASTS WAR TARGETS

Only Military Facilities Attack; Leaflet Barrage Explains Act To People.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 19—An all-American force of Flying Fortresses, Liberators, Mitchells and Marauders carried out the war's first bombing of Rome, it was disclosed tonight.

The fliers concentrated on military targets in the eternal city.

The San Lorenzo marshalling yard, one of the targets, lies four miles from Vatican city.

The Flying Fortresses led the way and while they were attacking the San Lorenzo yards Liberators bombed the Littorio railway freight yards.

Simultaneously hundreds of Marauders and Mitchells, escorted by Lightnings, began a lengthy attack on the Campino airdrome.

The fliers struck at the very heart of Fascist Italy in an emphatic follow-up to the Churchill-Roosevelt surrender demand.

The crews were specially trained to carry home a precision attack, pinpointing targets which supposedly were protected by their proximity to some of the most sacred symbols and monuments of Christianity.

The San Lorenzo marshalling yards was the closest target to the Vatican.

Forty-five minutes after the first attack another wave of Flying Fortresses laid a new pattern of bombs over the same yards.

All the crews were carefully instructed to avoid historical and religious points by means of large aerial photographs on which such places as Vatican City, St. John Lateran and others were outlined in red with the legend nearby: "Must on no account be damaged."

A terrific force of explosives burst in Rome. Prior to falling of the bombs went leaflets telling Italians why the eternal city had to be attacked—because the Fascists capitalizing on hallowed precincts, had systemically concentrated their war machinery there and funneled German troops as well as their own through Roman railways.

"It is from this war engine that weapons to kill our soldiers have been coming," the allied message said.

Rome is barely 350 miles from advanced allied air bases and Mussolini and his Fascist chieftains are reported to have lived in terror of a bombing of their capital since the turn in the fortunes of war in the Mediterranean.

The Fascist chieftain is reported to have had several different headquarters arranged in various parts of Italy, but his main office remained in the capital.

Thousands Flock to Capital

Thousands of Italians had flocked to the capital, believing it would be safe from bombing.

The pilots, navigators and bombardiers who made the attack were hand-picked from among thousands, selected for special qualities in which their military efficiency was only one, and then went through intensive weeks of training by allied intelligence experts who had lived for years in Rome.

They memorized a large map of Rome to be sure of their targets.

They had to take all these precautions because Mussolini had built up a big war machine virtually in the shadow of Vatican City.

The people's residence is only about five miles from the big Rome railway freight yards where bombs were planted, and the Roman forum is even closer, about three miles.

The Rome bombing was announced in a brief special communique which emphasized the care taken not to harm cultural and religious structures.

This was in line with a communication which President Roosevelt sent to Pope Pius XII recently assuring him that the allies, in attacking Sicily and Italy, would do all in their power to avoid damage to the Vatican and property of the Roman Catholic church in Italy.

The raid was carried out in broad daylight and bombs were away at 11:13 a. m. (5:13 a. m., eastern war time.)

The allies thus took the opening step in bringing the war home—emphatically — to millions of Italians who had found or expected to find refuge in the ancient city.

Pilots Specially Selected

A group of specially selected American and British pilots were given the task.

Allied commanders said they took "unusual risks" to carry out their mission without damaging those areas of the Italian capital where religious institutions or

Party Strength for 1944 Tested in National Poll

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 19—Out of a total anticipated vote of 48,000,000 in the next Presidential election, 24,000,000 voters or one-half of the total say they have definitely made up their minds which party they will favor. Among these many-pattern who indicate that there is no chance they will switch parties the Democrats hold a slight edge.

So far as the campaign is concerned, this group of hitherto fair-weathers receives little attention from leaders of either party. The real battle will be fought to win and hold the vote of other half of the electorate, the other 24,000,000. There the race looks close. Approximately 11,000,000 have definite leanings toward one party or the other today but say they may very well change their minds and switch, depending on the circumstances and on the trend of events. The party has about as many of these pressure "shifters" as the other. They are a group together with a substantial bloc of voters who are undecided on any party at present, with the balance of power for 1944.

Such is the general line-up of the electorate at the time on the basis of surveys made by the Institute throughout the 48 states.

In specific terms, the political movement would be as follows:

Definitely Republican	9,000,000
Leaning Republican	5,000,000
Undecided	3,000,000
Leaning Democratic	6,000,000
Definitely Democratic	11,000,000
Total Anticipated Vote	48,000,000

From the above table it can be seen that in terms of total party strength without relation to candidates the Democrats appear to hold an advantage today. If those voters "leaning Democratic" are added to those "definitely Democratic" the total is 17,000,000 voters, as compared to 14,000,000 for all Republicans. On a percentage basis exclusive of the undecided the party strength would be 55 per cent for the Democrats, 45 per cent for the G. O. P.—as of today.

The estimated turnout of 48,000,000 votes for next year compares with 50,000,000 in the Presidential election of 1940. Last year in the Congressional elections, the turnout was only 28,000,000—abnormally low even for a mid-term election. The lower turnout in wartime is accounted for by the presence of so many millions of men in the armed forces plus the factor of civilian migration which brings temporary disfranchisement of many of the families who move.

Voters in the survey were questioned as to what party they want to see win next year, and were then asked whether there was a good chance at all that they might change their minds.

Those who said that they favored the Republicans right now but might change their minds have been labeled "leaning Republican" in the above table. Similarly, those who indicated a preference for the Democrats but thought they might shift were labelled "leaning Democratic."

Most political campaigns in the past have been conducted by buckshot methods, with ammunition scattered alike among those already solidly attached to the party and among those whom the party seeks to convert. Actually elections are generally decided by a relatively small group of "shift" voters. The problem of the strategists in both parties is how to concentrate their campaign on that group.

The results of today's study provide interesting evidence of the extent to which the New Deal has lost farm support outside the Solid South, while retaining a marked advantage among the skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers.

The Republican party is as deeply entrenched with farmers outside the South as the Democratic party is with workers outside the South.

Following is the line-up of those two large groups:

	Farmers (Outside Solid South)	Workers (Outside Solid South)
Definitely Republican	32%	19%
Leaning Republican	14	10
Undecided	22	22
Leaning Democratic	14	15
Definitely Democratic	18	34

With the nominating conventions only a year away, political opinion continues to split along income, education, and age lines as it has for the past 10 years of the New Deal.

Among the young voters those under 30 years of age, the Democrats hold a 2 to 1 advantage, while in the oldest age group, 50 and over, the G.O.P. has a 5 to 4 margin.

In the upper income group Republicans outnumber Democrats by a large margin, while in the low income group Democrats predominate.

Voters who have had some college training are inclined toward the Republicans by a ratio of approximately 3 to 4. At the other extreme, among voters who have had grade school education only, the Democrats lead 2 to 1.

OPINIONS ARE DIVIDED ON CORN MARKETING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 19—Opinion in grain trade circles is pretty much divided on whether corn would move to market in increasing volume now that Price Administrator Prentiss Brown has stated that no upward revision in present ceilings is contemplated.

Brown added that corn is moving to market now that the "uncertainty" concerning the prospect of higher maximums had been removed, but cash grain dealers said the movement, while slightly above the unprecedented small total of recent weeks, still was below normal and far under requirements.

Traders who were inclined to believe corn shipments would expand pointed out the war food administration had pledged that if there was any increase in ceilings between now and Oct. 31, farmers would be compensated for the increase if they shipped corn to market between July 1 and Aug. 11.

Thus, some of the incentive to hold for higher prices had been removed, these traders reasoned, although admitting that if the farmers responded by selling corn there obviously would be no need to raise the ceilings in order to attract offerings.

Those who doubted that the movement would show any substantial expansion asserted it was still more profitable to feed corn to hogs and farmers were inclined to hold onto their grain until they have a better picture on the prospects of the 1943 crop, which was planted late and is late in developing.

There is plenty of corn stored on farms. Stocks on July 1 totaled 812,692,000 bushels compared with 761,363,000 bushels a year ago and a year (1932-41) average of 550,754,000 bushels. Stocks this year were not far under the all-time high for July 1 established in 1940 at 853,223,000 bushels.

The disappearance of corn from farms during the second quarter of 1943 totaled 582,420,000 bushels, the largest on record and more than 54,000,000 bushels above the previous record disappearance of 528,225,000 bushels during the corresponding quarter last year.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, July 20

THE AUGURIES for this day indicate unusual activity, with probable agitation and excitement, incidental to major moves of sudden and surprising precipitation. While the attitude may be progressive, with sound ideas of promoting practical propositions, yet an inclination to the obscure, idealistic or unique might upset calculations unless firmly directed into workable channels. There are forces at hand of a devastating nature, possibly concerning financial, domestic, social or love relations, all of which need safeguarding and solidifying. Work for permanency and stability.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of exciting activity. Although the mind may be capable, shrewd and sagacious, with sound and solid basis, yet tendencies toward the fanciful, idealistic and visionary must be turned to the practical and constructive. In finance, social, domestic and affectional relations there is danger through impulsive, reckless acts, or undue emotionalism.

A child born on this day may have many splendid talents, with ingenuity and skill, but may be carried into danger by its impulses and emotionalism.

Bomber's View of Tokyo

CAPT. TED LAWSON

By ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD—I had an hour today with a hero of a kind you seldom see on the screen.

He was good-looking enough to pass a camera test—clean-cut, with black hair and blue eyes and a pleasant boyish smile. But he wasn't full of dash and swagger, and you wouldn't pick him to mow down a couple of dozen pluguglies in a movie brawl, the way some of our heroes can with proper assistance from the script.

His name is Ted Lawson—Capt. Ted Lawson. He was one of Doolittle's Tokyo raiders.

He is here for a month because M-G-M is making a movie of his book, "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." M-G-M, the producer Zimbalist, and the War department are all interested in having it be a worthy film record. Ted Lawson was brought here to help make it so by sitting on the script, which Dalton Trumbo is preparing. After that, he'll be off on another assignment—probably not over Tokyo again, for his injuries have grounded him.

Crashed in China

Ted Lawson was one of the raiders who crashed in friendly Chinese territory, close to the Jap lines. His book tells about it—the injury that cost him a leg, amputated without anesthetic in a poor little village, the long, slow recovery, the return to his wife and the new baby he had never seen. There is much more, of course. The excitement of preparation for a "dangerous" unnamed mission, the bombing raid itself, are told simply and straightforwardly, and it adds up to the makings of a first-rate picture.

Ted is 26 now, a Hollywood boy who never wanted to get inside a studio. He wanted to be an aeronautical engineer, and he was working at it before he joined the service. It's the work he'll do again.

The first thing he'll tell you is that he didn't actually write the book. He "told" it to Bob Considine. "I always had thought," he'll say, "that if you had a real experience you could write about it. I found it wasn't so. I made notes while I was getting well—a sort of diary. I looked at them later and they didn't mean a thing. It all seemed to have happened to some other guy. It wasn't real."

Story in Demand

He had thought he had enough material for a couple of magazine articles, was surprised when a series of six was ordered, was further astonished when book publishers began bidding, and then the movie companies—one of which sent a bidder to him when he came home for his mother's funeral.

"I hope the picture doesn't turn out corney," he said. I gathered, from this and other remarks, that he has an aversion to "corn" and "mush"—and to seeing his name in print.

But what finally bowled me over was when this young fellow—who had spent "thirty seconds over Tokyo" and months of hell afterward—put out his hand and thanked me for coming in to see him. He thanked me!

SHOT KILLS YOUTH

Democratic Chairman Target of Criticism

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., July 19—Announced criticism of the failure to appear at a party patronage caucus by Darrell Jones, Democratic state chairman, said today he will make confidential efforts to determine if there in charge of the session that he would be unable to attend.

Jones, charged by Democratic leaders one month two months ago with failing to deliver on federal patronage, was criticized yesterday by President Ralph Graves of the Ohio League of Young Democratic clubs for not filling a speaking engagement at a gathering of the league's executive committee at Columbus yesterday.

"I'm disgusted over the failure of the state chairman to appear, since Mr. Jones on two occasions gave me his promise he would be here," W. W. Diehl, the group's public relations representative, said. Graves told the meeting of 50 persons.

During the first quarter of 1943, Lend-Lease shipments accounted for a pound of butter out of every 100 pounds produced in the United States, and 15 eggs out of every 100 eggs laid.

MRS. SHUMAKER OF NEAR MARTEL DIES

Brief Illness Fatal: Funeral To Be Wednesday.

MARTEL, July 19—Mrs. Susan Elizabeth Shumaker, 87, widow of John Shumaker, died of a heart attack at 12:30 a. m. today at her home one-half mile north of here. She was ill only a few hours.

A native of New Winchester, Crawford county, where she was born March 25, 1856, to Augusta and Anna Goldsmith Rorick, she moved with her parents to the home in which she died when she was four years old. Her marriage to Mr. Shumaker, who died Oct. 29, 1924, took place in January, 1874, in Tully township.

Mrs. Shumaker was a member of the Clyde Reformed church, later transferring her membership to the Martel Church of Christ where she was a member until the church discontinued services a number of years ago.

Surviving are a son, Julius L. Shumaker of Martel, three grandchildren, one great-grandchild, a brother, Charles Rorick of Martel and a sister, Mrs. Jacob Beauman of Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. fast time, Wednesday at the Clyde Reformed church. Burial will be made in the Brooklocker cemetery north of Caledonia. Friends may call at the Timson Allen funeral home in Caledonia until noon Tuesday and after that at the home of Julius Shumaker here. The body will be removed to the church at noon Wednesday where it may be viewed until the funeral hour.

ENGLAND'S ART TREASURE SAFE

Stored in Caves To Guard Them Against Damage by Bomb Attacks.

By International News Service

LONDON — In 200-foot-deep subterranean caves are stored some of the greatest of Britain's art treasures. The complete contents of the National Gallery have been transferred to these caves for the duration of the war as a safeguard against bombing attacks.

The temperature and humidity of the caves is scientifically controlled, and the paintings are being maintained in such perfect condition that experts are wondering what effect retransportation to London after the war will have.

Are Well Protected

"The paintings are enjoying a climate of such salubrity that the greatest problem for the future is to foresee how they will react when they leave it," writes Ian G. Paulton, scientific adviser to the trustees of the National Gallery.

The pictures have between 200 and 300 feet of rock cover which renders them impregnable to air attack. Nothing short of an earthquake could harm them mechanically, and the temperature is kept almost constant.

The large staff employed to take care of this vast subterranean art gallery gives ceaseless attention to temperature, humidity and ventilation, and a quarter of a mile of miniature railway has been installed.

Site Carefully Chosen

The paintings are kept in six separate buildings — "envelopes" of a type which experience has shown will withstand direct hits of any bomb.

There are powerful electric fans, and emergency generators which can be brought into operation within three minutes of a breakdown.

The site was chosen by experts after an extensive search, in September, 1940, and the removal began in August, 1941, after 5,000 tons of rock and earth had been removed. Two previously selected sites have since been abandoned because the Germans — who have involved a major disaster.

Valuable information concerning the removal of pictures to temperature and humidity has been collected during this venture, and will contribute to the post-war design of museums and galleries, and will lead to the air-conditioning of such buildings.

EMERGENCY WORKERS PROMISED CANNERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 19—The state of Ohio is back in its victory food task — this time to help Buckeye canners and growers harvest and pack the war-important tomato and sweet corn crops.

The highway department, Director Hal C. Sours reporting today, is ready with personnel and trucks to prevent possible spoilage in the fields and potential shortages in short-handed packing plants.

Trucks and operators will be available to transport foodstuffs to canneries. Highway workers, many of them experienced, will be on call for part-time tasks in packing plants for harvesting in the fields.

Sours said "in some instances highway working hours will be staggered to permit release of our men in critical areas." Arrangements will be made with canners rather than growers, he said, since packers contract with farmers for their crops. Prevailing wages will be paid the state men. Nominal hourly charges will be made for use of trucks, plus operator wages.

"For the most part, highway workers will do this work in the late afternoons and early evenings after they have completed a regular day with the department," Sours said.

A month ago the department turned tractors and operators over to farmers to prepare fields for corn and soy bean planting, retarded by weather and lack of help. Ten thousand acres were plowed and harrowed.

No Talking—This Means You

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S unexpected double rebuke to his 1940 running mate and his secretary of commerce over the board of economic warfare dispute shows genuine irritation. Likewise, his transfer of all functions of economic warfare to a new catch-all agency—office of economic warfare, instead of board of economic warfare—is a further sign that presidential patience was tried to the breaking point by the hard words recently exchanged between Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jones.

Under Leo T. Crowley, head of the new OEW, there will be no public disputes over anything; Mr. Crowley's authority is absolute. Under Mr. Roosevelt's dictum that in the future any official who airs his differences with another official in public must submit his resignation, there can be no disputes anywhere. There will be only bitter statements as men whose mouths have been buttoned up lose their patience and leave the government.

Internal differences over policy — the people's business — will not be disclosed to the people, except in the controlled atmosphere of congressional committee hearings. The President's dictum simply means the government's blinds are going to be pulled down on the people. Hereafter, any official who takes his case to them, instead of submmitting to star chamber proceedings, will sign his death warrant. There is going to be discipline in the New Deal at any price — and the price threatens to be considerably higher than a representative democracy can afford to pay

Owners Have Rights, Too

MINE owners' demands for a clear decision on their rights in the dispute that now lies between United Mine Workers and the government have been answered by President Roosevelt's promise that their property will be returned under the provisions of the anti-strike law.

The law provides that plants taken over by the government shall be restored to private hands as soon as practicable and in no case later than 60 days after "productive efficiency" has been restored. Mr. Roosevelt does not attempt to predict when this condition will be satisfied. The possibility that John L. Lewis might see to it that "productive efficiency" can't be restored, unless his terms are met, must be taken into account.

The chief effect of Mr. Roosevelt's assurance that return of the mines to their owners is contemplated is to remove the growing doubt about the rights of ownership in labor disputes. Those rights have not been shelved for the duration. In correspondence made public on July 10, mine owners pointed out to James F. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, that they felt it might have been wiser, in view of what had happened, for them to make a contract with United Mine Workers in defiance of the stabilization program. At least, they would not have been deprived of control of their property, whereas by cooperating with the government they lost their mines. The point was well taken, and appears to have been well answered by Mr. Roosevelt, within the limitations of his administration's other commitments.

Will the Hand Be Quicker?

THE President's promise to make a legal issue of the legislative procedure ousting three federal employes by specifying that they must be dropped from the payroll not later than Nov. 13, unless meanwhile they are renominated and confirmed by the senate, is a threat to confuse the real issue.

The real issue is whether the chief executive may bring into the rapidly growing executive personnel individuals of his own choosing and keep them there indefinitely against the wishes of the legislature. The procedure by which three men suspected of holding beliefs inimical to the Constitution of the United States have been challenged is an experiment—a test case. Mr. Roosevelt's intention to resist the challenge by the legal means of charging congress with a bill of attainder contrary to the Constitution is likewise a test case. This is a contest between the executive and legislative branches to determine which holds final authority over members of the mushrooming bureaucracy, referred to sometimes as the "fourth branch" of government.

The question is whether the public can be misled by a legalistic approach, or whether it will follow the argument with full awareness of what is entailed. Congress may have been wrong in the means it employed, but congress is not wrong when it insists on retaining the right to exercise some authority over jobholders for whom it must take responsibility.

We are not going to lose this war, but we are going to prolong it unless we are willing to abandon the idea that our country owes us a living and that we are doing all we should do by working when and where we choose. — Roger D. Lapham, former WLB member.

We don't dive as fast as most people think, but actually we have gone so fast that we have caught up with our own bullets —Pilot of a new A-36 fighter-bomber.

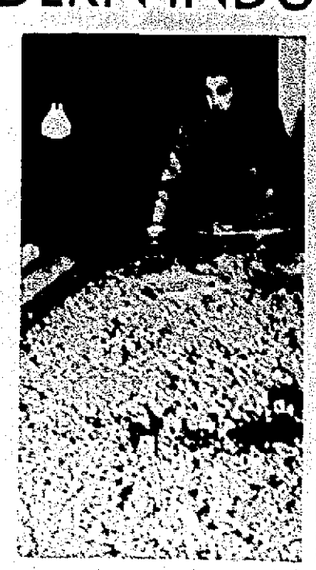
ABC OF HOME-MADE RUBBER A MODERN INDUSTRIAL CLASSIC

1. ...nd styrene molecules are hooked ...at shown above, called a reactor. ...ture and pressure are controlled ...w materials in the proper proportion.

2. Salt and acid is added to join the small particles of latex together into larger flakes or crumbs. This process is called coagulation.

3. Coagulated rubber is sluiced in a stream to filters, where excess water is squeezed out. Plant production man watches the process.



4. After drying, the rubber crumbs look like well-buttered popcorn. They are carried on conveyors to automatic weighing machine.

5. Baler is fed 75 pounds at a time and compresses the crumbs into rubber leaves — the finished product. Throughout the process scores of samples are analyzed to insure uniform quality.

JAP SHIPS BATTERED BY U. S. IN PACIFIC

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 19—Allied airplanes and surface ships battered Japanese shipping in the Solomon islands over the week-end as American troops increased their pressure on Munda with attacks on enemy positions near that key airbase.

United States warships beat back two more attempts to run supplies to the besieged Munda garrison on New Georgia. Two destroyer flotillas, the first of three ships, the second of six, were intercepted west of Kolombangara island and forced to retreat northward. One destroyer was believed to have been sunk and hits were scored on three others.

A powerful aerial force, described by a spokesman as almost as strong as the 200-plane armada that sank seven Japanese ships and shot down 40 planes in the Rabaul-Faisi area Saturday, struck again at the remnants of enemy shipping in that harbor and pounded the nearby Kahili airdrome. Thirteen Zeros were shot down. A cargo ship was sunk and two destroyers and another merchantman were damaged. Four of our planes failed to return.

Allied planes scored another victory over New Guinea Sunday. Greatly outnumbered, our fighters slammed into a formation of 50 enemy aircraft, shot down two fighters, probably destroyed four others and damaged two more—all without loss to themselves.

Sharp patrol clashes were reported from the Salamaua sector.

BEIGHTLER TELLS TROOPS OF FUTURE RESPONSIBILITY

Declares Peace Must Be Pounded Into Foes.

By The Associated Press

A SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, July 19—Major Gen. Robert S. Beightler of Ohio told an audience of several thousand soldiers recently that their responsibilities would not terminate with the end of the war.

Every American, he asserted, must "be willing to make some sacrifices for peace—smaller ones than those he is now making for victory, but equally vital ones."

The division commander declared in a rare public utterance that America and her allies must understand that if they are to have true peace in the world, they will have to compel some nations to accept it.

"American peace is repulsive to German war lords," he added. "American peace is abominable to Japanese jingoists. American peace is considered weak and futile by Fascist war-mongers. We may have to pound peace into the blood-lustful skulls of our enemies—but it will be worth the effort a thousand times over."

AT A HUGE, pipe-laden factory in Institute, W. Va., American industry has opened its offensive in the battle of rubber.

Industry's answer to the Japs who trampled upon the British and Dutch rubber kingdoms in Malaya is Buna S. The Institute plant—one of the first in the government's synthetic program—is now moving into high gear and production soon is expected to reach 90,000 long tons a year, about one-seventh of America's peacetime needs.

The Institute plant is operated for the government by the Carbide & Carbon Chemical Corp., which produces the basic ingredients — butadiene and styrene — and the United States Rubber Co., which makes the actual product.

These pictures show how the rubber is made.

RED TROOPS BATTLE TO OREL DEFENSES

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 19—The Russian army, overcoming the German fluid defense, has slugged its way to the approaches of the main enemy base of Orel on the central Russian front south of Moscow, the newspaper "Pravda," official Communist party organ, announced today.

As the battle reached the close of the second week of furious fighting along a 165-mile front it found the Nazi army, initiators of the offensive, rocking back under sledge hammer blows of the Russian counterattack which threatened the German base and their hold on the vital Orel-Bryansk railway.

(The Berlin radio said today in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press that Russian troops launched a violent offensive yesterday in the Velikie Luki sector northwest of Moscow and on the Neva river near Leningrad with support from heavy artillery fire. The Germans said that they had thrown back the Red army men inflicting serious losses including the destruction of 33 Soviet tanks.)

The Soviet midnight communique reported the Red army had advanced an additional four miles in one sector during the fighting yesterday capturing several villages and killing about 5,000 German troops.

The battle, which was intended by the Germans to pinch off the Kursk salient and straighten out the line, continued to pile up heavy losses in the Nazi armored and air divisions, the Russians said. They announced they had knocked out 78 tanks and 137 planes on Saturday and said an incomplete check showed 20 more tanks destroyed yesterday to bring German losses to the staggering total of approximately 3,500 tanks and 2,000 planes in the last two weeks.

Man Bound Over On Charge of Larceny

William Lester Van Hoose, who gave his address as Paintsville, Ky., has been bound over to the grand jury after his arrest Thursday by city police on a grand larceny charge filed by Scott Williams of Marion. Municipal Judge Hazen fixed bond at $1,500.

Williams charged Van Hoose with taking $34 and a silver watch from him on June 4 of this year, police said. The $34 alone would not have constituted a grand larceny charge but the value of the watch raised the combined value to over $50. Van Hoose is now in county jail.

Police said he had been arrested on a similar charge this spring.

SEVEN IN AREA ARRESTED ON SPEEDING CHARGES

Six of Total Stopped by State Highway Patrol.

Six speeding arrests were made by state highway police and one by city police over the week-end.

William Howard Rousch of 123 Patten street was arrested by city police at 12:17 p. m. Saturday on Bellefontaine avenue. He posted a $25 bond for apperance in municipal court today.

The following arrests on charges of speeding were made by state highway patrolmen: Clarence Cramer, 40, of Zanesville on Route 23, north, at 8:53 p. m. Saturday, posted a $25 bond for appearance in Marion municipal court tomorrow at 10 a. m.; Robert Richardson of Dayton on Route 42, north of Ashley, Saturday night, fined $10 and costs in mayor's court in Ashley; Thomas D. Myers of Toledo on Route 23, south of Upper Sandusky at 8 p. m. Saturday, cited for appearance in mayor's court in Upper Sandusky Wednesday; Sherman Norton of Bucyrus on Route 98, south of Bucyrus, cited for appearance in Marion municipal court today; Anthony Nebbiose of Columbus on Route 23, south of Delaware, Saturday, fined $10 and costs in mayor's court in Delaware; and Harry Doss of Springfield on Route 4 south of Marion, yesterday, fined $10 and costs in Justice Faulkner's court in Marysville.

MARION COUNTY COUPLE TAKE WEDDING VOWS

Miss Virginia Radel and Robert Collins Married.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Radel of near Marion are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Robert Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Collins of the Bucyrus pike.

The single-ring ceremony was read Saturday evening in the parsonage of the Emanuel Lutheran church by Rev. M. E. Hollensen. Mr. and Mrs. Willis Clutter, sister and brother-in-law of the bride were the only attendants.

Miss Radel chose a light blue street-length dress with brown accessories for her wedding and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds and baby breath. Mrs. Clutter wore a navy blue dress with navy and white accessories and had a corsage of red roses and baby breath.

Mrs. Collins presented her attendant with a compact and Mr. Clutter received a tie from his brother.

Mrs. Collins is employed at the Anthony Laundry Co. and Mr. Collins is engaged in farming. The couple are making their home with the bridegroom's parents for the present.

Girl, 17, Is Marion's First Feminine Farm Work Recruit

Her Application for "Healthy Outdoor Work" Is Welcomed in Effort To Meet County's Urgent Needs.

Although the employment affairs of Marion county farms generally assumed a darker and darker hue last week, a 17-year-old Marion girl loosened off what farm labor officials think may develop into work on a farm for victory" movement for members of the weaker sex and a possible solution to the dearth of agriculture workers in this area.

The girl was Dona Hayes of 494 Elms road, and became the first city female to register with Orla E. Barks, special deputy farm labor assistant, since an appeal for emergency workers, part or full time, was issued a month ago.

Mr. Barks said the girl signed up with him Friday and on her application form specified she wanted "healthy outdoor work." He added that he will undoubtedly encounter no difficulty in finding a place for her on some county farm.

The labor assistant stated after Miss Hayes had applied for farm work, "We can find a place for her on some farm. Some farmers may want her to help them shock oats."

Others May Follow

Farm leaders believe that this one application from Miss Hayes may give other city women, who might have been holding back thinking they were not desired for farm work, ample reason and sufficient courage to sign up at the local agricultural extension office.

In respect to likelihood of more women registering for farm work, Mr. Barks comments, "We can place almost anybody who is out of the cradle stage for some type of farm work in the county. Anyone who doesn't mind getting his or her hands dirty and doesn't mind doing a little work are welcome to sign up with me or county agent Arthur Smith."

In addition to Miss Hayes, 11 men and boys registered for farm work last week. Six of this number were high school boys, mostly under 16 years of age, and four were city men who requested part time posts. The other registrant was a man who was hired for full time work.

The last of the adult part time workers applied at the extension office Thursday. He was placed on a county farm south of Marion.

Demand Exceeds Supply

During the latter part of the week, the demand was greater than the supply, Mr. Barks reports. Two farmers contacted the extension office Friday and said they were in need of three part-time workers for oats-shocking. Another farm owner also appealed to the office for a man to aid in hay-making.

The danger of oats and wheat harvesting and hay-making piling up on county farmers simultaneously has been lifted temporarily, at least, as Mr. Barks reports most oats won't be ready until the latter part of the week. That applies, he adds, only to those farmers who will combine their oats. Some farmers cut their oats Saturday and today and will thresh it later.

However, Mr. Barks adds most farmers will adopt the combining method of harvesting for both oats and wheat. He supports this statement with the reason that combining will prove much more practical in times such as these because of its labor-saving values.

Usually one experienced and competent hand can handle a combine while sometimes as many as a crew of 12, including both men and horses, are required for cutting wheat with a binder. This inestimable value of combines makes it appear that more custom work than ever before will be done this year on county farms.

Harvesting Under Way

Wheat harvesting began in earnest Friday and Saturday and was expected by county farm officials to hit its peak this week. Some farmers did not start on their harvesting as early as originally anticipated, since their particular sections of the county have received more rain than other parts, thus delaying the ripening process.

Arthur Smith, Marion county farm agent, reports many county farmers took samples of their wheat into city elevators to have it tested for its moisture content. In this way they could get a better idea of whether to start large scale harvesting immediately.

Most elevators, Mr. Smith says, prefer wheat containing not more than 14% moisture. However, some elevator-operators will accept 15 and 16% wheat but do not relish the idea of doing so.

However, most farmers do not worry much if their wheat might have too much aqua pura, as some "old hands" relate experiences when the moisture content in their wheat has dropped 2% in the course of a few hours.

One [illegible]-hour farmer gives an especially excellent example of the quick-drying occurrences. He said last year he took some wheat into a city tester and found there was too much moisture in it. This was at noon. About four hours later he put some more of the crop to be tested and found that the moisture had decreased sufficiently quickly for elevator-acceptance.

Shower Given For Local Bride-Elect of Next Month

MISS MARJORY JEAN MOORE and Miss Virginia Methot entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of the former at 265 Bellefontaine avenue Friday evening for the pleasure of Miss Bettie Daum, a bride-elect of next month. Bridge and euchre entertained the guests, high honors in bridge going to Miss Daum and the consolation award to Miss Patricia Lawler. Mrs. Ida Daum received the award for high score in euchre.

The bride-elect found her gifts after reading original verses attached to ribbons showered from a miniature green tree. Favors of tiny brides and bridegrooms marked the guest places. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. E. H. Moore, mother of Miss Moore.

Present with Miss Daum whose marriage to Lt. Forrest Sharrock Jr. will take place Aug. 7, were Mrs. Frank Daum, Mrs. Ida Daum, Mrs. James Cusick, Mrs. Forrest Sharrock, Misses Patricia Lawler, Maxine Schlagenhauf, Barbara Axe, Miriam Lusch and Joan Kelly. Miss Daum's fiance is stationed at a Marine base at San Diego, Calif., where the wedding will take place.

FIRST DEMOLAY SHOT

LOUIS G. LOWER

WAR PLANT GUARD HELD AFTER SLAYING

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, July 19—Louis G. Lower, 41, first member of DeMolay, Masonic organization for young men, was fatally shot yesterday when he challenged the authority of a man attempting to direct traffic at the busy Union station plaza.

Detective Inspector Edward J. Larson said Clyde Souders, 49, whom he identified as a war plant guard and former police clerk, is being held in jail and will be taken before the prosecutor today. No charges have been filed.

Larson said Souders told police he had fired at Lower's arm when he thought Lower was reaching for a weapon. The detective inspector said Corp. Harold Johnson of St. Paul and several other witnesses agreed on this account of the slaying:

Lower, manager of the municipal auditorium and one of the wreckers of Tom Pendergast's Democratic machine, stopped his car at a traffic light.

Souders, in his guard's uniform, motioned Lower to back up and stop at the curb. Lower alighted, asking Souders by what authority he was directing traffic. He reached toward Souders' badge and Souders fired. The bullet struck Lower in the chest.

Larson said the war plant guard admitted he'd had two or three highballs at a niece's wedding reception. Sgt. Charles Welch, head of the homicide division, said Souders was drunk when taken into custody.

Lower, inducted into the order of DeMolay March 24, 1919, was the first member to be initiated into the organization founded by Frank S. Land of Kansas City. He later became Land's assistant in administering affairs of the expanding order.

WILLIAM J. FITTS OF PROSPECT DIES

Retired Farmer Stricken; Rites To Be Held Wednesday.

Special to The Star

PROSPECT, July 19—William J. Fitts, 78, of Prospect, a retired farmer, died of uremic poisoning at 5:30 p. m. Sunday in University hospital at Columbus. He was taken to the hospital a week ago.

He was born Sept. 23, 1864, in Elgin. He lived in Prospect township for several years and moved to Delaware, where he was engaged in carpentry work. The family returned to Prospect several years ago.

For many years he was an elder in the Prospect Presbyterian church and after it was discontinued he became a member of the Reformed church, in which he served as an instructor of a men's class.

Surviving are the wife, Mary Mallory Fitts, one son, Melvin C. Fitts of Van Wert, one daughter, Mrs. Roy Harvey of Delaware, one brother, John Fitts of Elyria, and 13 grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Reformed church with Rev. Edgar Guenther, pastor, officiating. Burial will be made in the Prospect cemetery. Friends may call at the Drake & Gunn funeral home after 7 tonight.

Initiative Is Held by United Nations on All War Fronts

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

This 202nd week of the Hitlerian attempt to conquer the world finds the United Nations holding a vigorous initiative right around the globe, and things going so well for them that British Prime Minister Churchill admits he is "almost afraid to say how well."

The bombing of military objectives in the Eternal City of Rome is a signal of allied determination, and a grim warning to supporters of Mussolini and his gangster ilk that "all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword."

The invasion of Sicily proceeds like the ticking of a clock, and the allies have established a secure line across the southeastern third of the island.

The amazing Russians, having stopped the Nazi offensive, are continuing to surge forward in a counter drive which already is threatening the main enemy base in the strategic city of Orel on the central front below Moscow.

In the southwest Pacific we have continued to weaken the Jap air and naval power. Our troops are drawing in about the strong base of Munda. We are getting ahead with the job of loosening the enemy hold on that whole vast island area.

Hitler and Kaiser

It's a highly interesting circumstance that Hitler and his illustrious predecessor in world-beating, Kaiser (me and gott) Wilhelm, arrived at crucial defensive positions at about the same period in their campaigns. Actually Adolf is a bit behind the emperor's schedule.

World war one lasted four years, three months and two weeks. The fuehrer has about five months to run to equal that.

Another notable point for the Nazi chief's consideration is that the old kaiser came within a split hair of winning the war in his great offensive on the western front in March of 1918. That was about nine months before Germany yelled "kamerad." It corresponds roughly to the all-out offensive which Hitler planned to launch against Russia this spring, and finally got around to some three weeks ago—with unpleasant results for him.

Having been all but knocked out, the allies of World war one made a miraculous comeback with an offensive which in three months beat the Boche.

Only a Comparison

Now please don't get the idea that I'm trying to demonstrate that history repeats itself. I just find these comparisons rather fascinating.

Hitler at this juncture would seem to be in a position similar to that of the kaiser in the latter's final few months of the war. That is to say, the emperor was terribly short of resources of all sorts, and he was being compelled to fight on too many fronts.

Many people regard Hitler as engaged on only one front—the Russian. Actually, however, he is battling on several "fronts" which are beginning to squeeze him hard. He has, of course, just been defeated in one of the most important theaters of the whole war—North Africa.

Sicily isn't a "second front" in the generally accepted sense of that expression, but it's providing a drain on German resources and acting as a brake on the Nazi Russian operations. One of the most serious fronts which the fuehrer has to face is the violent Anglo-American aerial bombardment of his war industries and communications. The cumulative effect of that is going to be mountainous—and before long.

U-Boat Fate the Same

The kaiser never had to endure such losses. His bete noir was the naval blockade—that silent ring of steel which slowly garroted Germany. He almost broke it with his unrestricted submarine campaign, but had to bow to the might of the American and British navies.

The naval blockade also is one of Hitler's heart-breaks. Profiting by the kaiser's mistakes, the fuehrer has tried to best the allies on the sea—and has given us a tough manhandling—only to find himself being swept from the oceans.

The allies in the last war began their final great offensive four months before the enemy collapsed. The United Nations now have got under way the grand offensive which our President has described as the "beginning of the end." How long will it take us to turn the trick? We can tell better later in the summer when we find what sort of continental invasion the allies are able to inaugurate.

MRS. ALMENDINGER DIES NEAR PROSPECT

Funeral Services To Be Held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

Special to The Star

PROSPECT, July 19—Mrs. Joe B. Almendinger, 69, died of a heart attack at 7:40 a. m. Sunday at her home east of Prospect.

She was married Sept. 21, 1900. She was a member of the Baptist church at Norton.

Surviving besides the husband are two sisters, Mrs. Kitty Smith of Galion and Mrs. Mabel Mellerter of Upper Sandusky, two brothers, P. J. Cleveland of Marion and Charles Cleveland of Bucyrus.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home. Rev. Paul Dobberteen, pastor of the Prospect Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Prospect cemetery.

CO. H TO REOPEN ARMORY TARGET RANGE TONIGHT

Appeal Issued for Recruits To Replace Men Called to Service.

Co. H target range will be reopened tonight at the Armory, according to an announcement today by Capt. Carl Ebert. The range is set up in a space under the front steps in the basement of the Armory and is approximately 45 feet in length.

Regular squad will be held tonight and Capt. Ebert is making an appeal for recruits to replace the members who have been called into active service and men who are unable to attend because of night work.

Drill will be held tomorrow night with the members practicing individual protection and interior guard duty. Final arrangements for the squad picnic also will be made tomorrow night.

HERO COMES HOME. Into the arms of Lt. Col. Four Boys Arrested on Curfew Charges

Four boys were arrested by city police early Sunday on charges of violating the curfew.

The first two boys were 14 and 15 and both gave their home addresses as Marion. They were arrested at 11:35 p. m. Saturday night on West Center street and were released for appearance in juvenile court today.

Exactly an hour later also on West Center street, two Norton boys, both 14, were arrested. They were taken to the county detention home, they they are awaiting appearance in juvenile court.

GREEN WARNS FOOD PRICES TOO HIGH

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 19—Asserting that "America has failed to hold the line against inflation," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, served notice today that "unless prices of food are brought down to a reasonable level," organized labor "will have no other recourse but to demand wage increases."

Green's ultimatum, in an address prepared for delivery before the convention of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, followed by less than a month a warning by CIO President Philip Murray to a congressional committee that labor would demand scrapping of the "little steel" formula unless prices are rolled back.

Under the "little steel" formula, the government has permitted wage increases of 15 per cent over Jan. 1, 1941, levels to offset rising living costs.

After reviewing progress on the war fronts and labor's contribution to the war production effort, Green said "there has been an almost complete lack of appreciation in our country of the corresponding need of keeping America's soldiers of production in top-notch condition."

Both the office of price administration and the war food administration, he declared, "have fallen down on the job" and workers who "accepted food rationing cheerfully are unable now to buy the amounts allotted to them under the rationing system" because "the cost of basic foods has mounted sky-high despite the price control program."

AFL food surveys in principal cities, he said, show that food prices have increased from 30 to 200 per cent since the war started.

ASHLEY MAN DIES AT HOSPITAL IN MARION

Henry Waddell, Retired Farmer, Stricken After Brief Illness.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, July 19 — Henry Waddell, 68, of near Ashley died Sunday at 1:30 a. m. at Marion City hospital after a brief illness. He had been taken to the hospital two days before his death. He was a retired farmer and lived alone for a number of years near Ashley.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Westfield Methodist church with burial in the Westfield cemetery. Friends may call at the C. R. Lee Funeral home.

LARGE CROWD AT UNION SERVICES

Rev. Roebuck Gives Sermon at Prospect Street Church.

Comparing "Daily Happenings in the Early Church" with today's Christianity, Rev. Garrison Roebuck of First United Brethren church stressed cooperation and faithful cultivation of spiritual life in his sermon in the union church service Sunday night.

Held in the Prospect Street church, the service was attended by a crowd which overflowed the main auditorium with some of the audience seated in the balcony. More than 10 Marion churches are cooperating in the union worship effort for the summer.

Rev. E. M. Bertler of First Church of the Brethren offered the opening prayer, Rev. H. C. Ahrens of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church read Scripture and Rev. Henry Maag, host pastor, presided.

Rev. Roebuck quoted five references in the book of Acts including, "And they, continuing daily with one accord in the temple . . . the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." He declared that if Christians now followed three rules of faith and conduct of the early church whereby they met in unity, witnessed daily and searched the Scriptures daily, congregations would have equal success today.

Pointing out that with limited numbers early Christians went forward to "conquer" most of the civilized world in 300 years, he spoke in contrast of retrenchment taking place in modern Christianity and gave the phrase "added to the church daily" as an argument for missions.

Christian Endeavor members of the United Brethren church were in charge of the Christian Young People's union service in Prospect Street Methodist church Sunday night preceding the union church service and in business session two committees were appointed.

The meeting theme was "Pathways That Lead to God Through Music." Dorothy Barnhart presided and Scripture and prayer were given by Gwen Coler. A trumpet duet was presented by Mildred and Dorothy Bolander, accompanied by Mildred Robel. R. K. Hill talked on the general field of music while "Children's Music" was discussed by Juanita Dilsaver, "Special Event Music" by Lois Roebuck, "Evangelistic Music" by Claudine Brown and "Worship Music" by Verne Weaver. Mrs. B. K. Hill was pianist.

A committee on recreation included appointment of Rev. Eldred Johnston of Central Christian church, Catherine Barnhart, Bernard Brooks and Lois Jean Murray; committee for Youth night drama, Geneva Albert, Charlotte Dill, Virginia Howard, Bon McGrew, Keith McMurray and Miss Margaret Huffman.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Snyder funeral home and burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 this evening.

AKRON TROLLEY, BUS STRIKE IS ENDED

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., July 19—CIO transport workers early yesterday ended a 12-day strike on Akron's bus and street car lines to have five days in which to present their case before a war labor board decision.

More than 900 transport workers ceased normal transportation service in the Midwestern rubber capital and the adjoining Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls at 4 a. m. yesterday ending a walkout which had paralyzed all public transportation facilities since Thursday.

Local Union President William H. Wright said the men agreed to end the strike, which he said was caused by their dissatisfaction with a WLB dispute panel's recommendations, in a meeting attended by nearly 350 unionists, Saturday night.

WLB Disputes Director Frederick H. Bullen told the carmen Thursday they would have until July 23 to submit their comment on the panel recommendations to the regional board.

Both Wright and International Union President Michael J. Quill of New York, said the union would protest the panel's recommendations, which denied requests for time and a half pay after 40 hours weekly, and for six specific holidays, checkoff system, and other minor improvements.

The babs' recommended time and a half after 12½ hours weekly and minor concessions.

Suspended Games Muddle Standings

This Is Season When Public Accountant Has Trouble Figuring Results.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

This season may come to be remembered as the one in which a certified public accountant couldn't figure out the National league standings on any given day.

Right now there are no fewer than four "suspended games" in the senior circuit which must be played to completion at some future date. Two of them already have been entered in the standings as won and lost for the teams involved, the other two have not.

Yesterday Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew halted the second game of a doubleheader at Pittsburgh after seven innings with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals leading 6-5. Under ordinary baseball rules this would have become a victory for the Redbirds as soon as play ceased. But the National league passed an "anti-stalling" rule last winter which said that contests halted before the end of nine innings because of curfew later must be completed.

So instead of a victory for the Cards, who earlier in the day had whipped the Pirates 7-4 for Mort Cooper's 12th triumph, the game simply entered a state of suspended animation until Sept. 1, the date agreed upon for its conclusion.

At Boston the Massachusetts Sunday curfew stopped the second contest between the Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers in the midst of a Boston rally in the sixth inning. The Braves had just scored three runs to tie the count at 4-4 and had the bases loaded with one out when play was halted. That will be the situation when play is resumed at an unspecified date. The Dodgers bagged the first game 8-5 in 11 innings.

The American league has no rule and everything showing in the standings today will count—very likely toward another pennant for the New York Yankees.

The Yanks yesterday swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics to extend their winning streak to eight games and 12 victories in their last 13 starts. Bill Johnson's three-run homer helped wrap up the first decision 7-2 for Ernie Bonham and the Yanks struggled to a 4-3 verdict in ten innings in the nightcap for Spud Chandler's 11th win.

Washington's stout-hearted Senators, in second place, kept the pace by taking two games from the Boston Red Sox 9-2 and 5-4. The Cleveland Indians subdued the St. Louis Browns twice 4-3 and 10-7.

In the other American league skirmishing Detroit divided a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, taking the first game 12-4 with an 18-hit attack featuring homers by Rudy York and Paul Richards and dropping the second 4-1 to Johnny Humphries' pitching.

In the National league the Chicago Cubs crushed the Cincinnati Reds twice 3-1 and 7-0 to vault into fifth place.

The Giants topped the Phillies twice 10-6 and 3-2.

Snatches of Sports

NEW YORK, July 19—Interested in the "inside" of the ice game these hot days, or would you prefer to have some of the ice inside you?.. Well, here's how we get it from a couple of guys who can be called "reliable sources." The National Hockey league, which had plenty of tough going last season, will be an eight-club circuit with Cleveland and Buffalo added. It isn't that Al Sutphin and Eddie Shore want to give up that combination of minor league expenses and minor league gates, but there won't be enough players for the American league to operate.

Not for the Book—Chicago scribes tell this one on Jimmy Dykes, who is carrying on his feud with umpires in a peaceful manner this season. It seems Jimmy wasn't satisfied with the umps' observation of a rather indefinite rule banning quick returns by pitchers so he clipped the item out of his book and posted it on the umpires' dressing room...A few days later Dykes thought one of the Philadelphia pitchers was making quick returns so he started shouting at Bill Summers about it..."What do you know about quick returns?" Summers came back, "that rule isn't in your book."..."And it isn't either," Dykes ruefully admitted as he displayed the mutilated page.

Columbus in Race for Association Leadership

By The Associated Press

Indianapolis and Milwaukee have been squabbling over first place in the American association so much recently that they haven't noticed how much the Columbus Red Birds have crept up on them.

The Red Birds have won 16 of their last 23 games and are just three games back of first place Indianapolis.

While the Tribe and Milwaukee were dividing a double header yesterday, the Columbus entry was sweeping a pair of games from St. Paul 8-2 and 4-0.

Meanwhile Milwaukee's Brewers remained just a game back of Indianapolis by grabbing an 8 to 3 second game win after the Tribe had breezed off with the opener, 6 to 3.

Louisville took a pair from last place Kansas City, 2 to 0 and 11 to 4, to rise above the Saints into sixth place.

Minneapolis and Toledo divided a twin bill, the Millers taking the first game, 5 to 2, and the Mud Hens the second, 8 to 5.

Thrills Come Fast and Often In Boxing Show Staged for Camp Millard Troops

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

There were a dime-a dozen, and boxers were frequent and returning yesterday afternoon when a group of Cleveland sportsmen staged an action-packed boxing show for the more than 2,300 men stationed at Camp Millard in Bucyrus, in addition to the regular complement of soldiers, an estimated 500 civilians turned out to witness the three-hour festivities.

The fights were held in an improvised ring at the camp drill field. The sun-radiated, blistering heat reminded many old-time fight fans so much of the memorable Dempsey-Willard tussle in Toledo in 1919.

After the conclusion of a full card of eight amateur matches and one professional bout in which punchers from Cleveland participated, the three Camp Millard battalions executed a near perfect formal retreat as a symbol of their gratitude to the Forest City individuals responsible for the colorful boxing program.

The one man who organized the contingent of Cleveland pugilists to make the Bucyrus trip and who served as master of ceremonies for the entire boxing part of the program was Ed Bang, veteran sports editor of the Cleveland News, who only recently was assigned to the additional job of military editor of the same paper. Capt. Stanley Worgan, chief public relations officer of Camp Millard, was in charge of arrangements for the program and negotiated with Bang for the appearance of the Sixth City boxers.

Notables Present

Other Cleveland prize fight luminaries who were introduced prior to the commencement of leather-flinging were: Ollie Downs, Cleveland welfare director; Pall Goldstein, secretary of the Cleveland Amateur Boxing Trainers' association; Johnny Papke, well-known trainer of Cleveland boxers; Dr. Hagadorn of the Amateur Boxing Trainers' association, J. J. Gallagher, deputy commissioner of the Cleveland Boxing association; and Mike Carriere, president of the Trainers' association. All these men cooperated with Bang in gathering personnel for the fights.

Top Camp Millard officers included in the pre-bout introductions were: Lt. Colonel Frank E. Cheshire, post commander; Lt. Col. Miles G. Stevens, commander of the 755th railway battalion; Lt. Col. Harold W. Bates, commander of 756th, railway battalion; and Lt. Col. Conliss, commander of the 758th. railway battalion.

Each of the eight simon pure fights went three rounds, each round lasting two minutes. The professional bout also lasted the three-round route, but each frame was of the regulation three-minute duration.

The feature of the whole card was the pro bout, the ninth and last on the program in which Harry Teany, 135, and Berry Wright, 138, were matched. This fight was on a non-decision basis since these same boys are scheduled to meet in a fight-for-pay bout in Chicago this week. However, the ringside observers were of a single opinion that the speedy and experienced Teany flung the most and hardest punches.

Training Demonstration

Immediately after this fight, Teany's trainer, Johnny Papke demonstrated to the khaki-clad boys just what a successful trainer must encounter in conditioning his fighter. For a painful 60 seconds, Papke bare-handed caught constant pulverizing blows authored by the Teany boy who has TNT in both paddles.

Going back to the first bout of the afternoon, the servicemen and Bucyrus townsmen saw Frank Kolaick and Chuck Wilkerson, a couple of 115 pounders violently mauling each other. Kolaick was awarded the bout on a split decision.

The second fight brought about a speedy metamorphosis in the crowd from nervous tension and thrilling excitement to laughter and enjoyment of a lighter vein. Two midget pugilists, Johnny and Joe Peters, 60 pounders, exchanged terrific punches and mean glares in a two-round affair. The bout was ajudged a draw, much to the approval and delight of the spectators.

Goodlaw Johnson, 160-pound colored Clevelander had too much reach and strength for Pedro Cavillo, late of Mexico City, in the third bout. However, before Johnson had won a unanimous decision from the stocky Mexican, he received not too gentle handling from his 165-pound opponent.

Flyweights on Card

A couple of fast and elusive flyweights filled out the fourth fight on the card. Gus Campo decisioned Don Rose in a struggle of 112-pounders. Camp scored the only knockdown of the afternoon in the second round but even at that, Rose had only one knee on the canvas and the crowd only heard the count of one by the referee.

Tony Janiro, 16-year-old Youngstown slugger, thought by many insiders to be one of the classiest and "coming" pugilists in the present crop, gained an undisputed decision over Bob Nelson, deaf Cleveland Negro, in the fifth fight. The puzzled Nelson could not find the range for the entire three rounds, grazing the clever Janiro only spasmodically throughout the proceedings.

Another Cleveland boxer, rightly respected and feared by many Forest City lightweights, is Jackie Keough, who won the sixth fight from Joe Krill, also of Cleveland. Both fighters weighed in at around 135. Not a knockdown was registered for the three rounds, but Keough landed many bruising blows, both aimed at the body and face, before action ceased.

LeRoy Jackson, sepia-skinned 118-pounder, and believed by a host of Cleveland ring followers as the cream of the present amateur bantamweights in the country, coasted to an easy victory over Hugh Bradley in the seventh bout. Jackson continually plowed into Bradley with punishing smashes and easily won the three votes cast by the two judges and the ref.

Fast Action

The last amateur fight proved to be the fastest-moving and roughest of the card. Pete McNamara, red-headed Cleveland Irishman, possessed too much Irish spunk and aggressiveness for Tony Bush, who was beaten via unanimous decision. Bush made the bad mistake of trying to slug toe-to-toe with McNamara, whose arms seemed to be perpetually in action.

The Cleveland fighters and the boxing moguls from Ohio's number one city were escorted to Bucyrus Saturday night by way of a Camp Millard army convoy. The fighters stayed over night at the camp and were tentatively scheduled to return home last night under the same convoy.

After the fights yesterday afternoon, all boxers were presented gifts purchased from contributions made by Bucyrus residents.

Practically all the 2,300 Millard soldiers, totaling three railway battalions of the Army transportation corps, participated in the formal retreat held about an hour after the bell sounded finis to the last bout. These formal retreats are usually held each Saturday night at the camp and a no-admittance sign applying to the general public is hung outside the drill field. However, the colorful and impressive retreat was moved back a day this week to give civilians a "look see" into what goes on when Uncle Sam's Army struts its stuff in full dress.

The post band began the retreat as it marched west onto the drill field followed by the colors borne by three Millard stalwarts. Two battalions were then organized at the west side of the field and the other at the east side.

These three battalions marched to the two ends of the field and cut back, eventually moving into straight and geometrically precise columns, extending almost the entire length of the field.

The three battalions were split into companies, each under the direction of a captain. In these separate groups, closely bunched in the center of the field, the men went through the customary manual-of-arms routine.

All the men were reviewed by the post commandant and the battalion commanders, all of whom were on the field. About 20 minutes after the retreat started, each company circled the field, still maintaining straight and orderly columns.

Band Sounds Retreat

Before the troops marched off the field, retreat was sounded by the band and the main post flag was lowered. All marching sodliers, and every serviceman and servicewoman in attendance stood at attention for this traditional Army event.

Up until a month ago, the entertainment life of the Camp Millard soldiers at the post was nonexistent. However, through the efforts of the morale officers of the camp, a varied recreational and entertaining post program has been developed. Yesterday's boxing show marked the first big-time athletic event staged by outside persons at the camp thus far. Saturday night, another sports show, a wrestling card under the sponsorship of Al Haft, Columbus promoter, will be presented at the camp.

MILLISOR AND WEISS WIN IN DOUBLE BILL

Marion Pitchers Best Columbus Softball Team Here.

The pitching of Harold "Fat" Millisor and Coxie Weiss was the prime factor in the double defeat of the Columbus Malleable Co. at Garfield park yesterday afternoon by the Lords Jewelry team, 2 to 1 and 4 to 1. An estimated crowd of 700, the largest softball turnout of the season, witnessed the twin bill.

In addition to setting the all-colored visitors down with three hits and one run in the curtain raiser, Weiss blasted a double in the last of the seventh to drive home Dillinger with the winning run. Dillinger was top man at the bat in the first game with two for three. Mickey Ferrin hit the longest drive of the contest, a triple in the first stanza.

Millisor bested the efforts of Weiss by hurling a one run, two-hitter. He walked one and struck out nine Columbus swingers. Fred Oden, Malleable flinger, who turned in the iron-man feat of pitching both games yesterday, fanned two and issued three passes in the second tilt.

Feature of the nightcap was a sensational catch made by John Williams, swift jeweler right fielder. A drive from the bat of Truss, Columbus shortstop, sent Williams racing deep into the right outer garden. He made a seemingly impossible catch and brought an exclamation of disbelief from the crowd as he turned two somersaults in grabbing the ball for the putout.

TRIBE ENDS 4-GAME LOSING STREAK WITH DOUBLE VICTORY

Browns Are the Victims; Cleveland and Reds Play Exhibition Game Today.

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, July 19—Snapping a four-game losing siege with a pair of victories in St. Louis yesterday, Cleveland's sixth place Indians rest from league warfare today to play the Cincinnati Reds in an exhibition here.

Yesterday's triumphs were taken 4 to 3 and 10 to 7. The first was highlighted by a seven-run Indian assault in the three inning that drove Bobo Newsom from the mound in the first appearance of his third term as a Brownie pitcher.

The Tribe rests tomorrow and then opens the season's second eastern trip at Philadelphia.

Jeff Heath banged his fifth home run of the season in the first game yesterday, pushing Ora Hockett and Mickey Rocco across the plate ahead of him. Heath, however, was injured in the nightcap, when struck by a thrown ball while heading into second base.

Heath's homer with two aboard knotted the count, and the winner was an unearned tally in the ninth inning.

Vernon Kennedy, who relieved Al Milnar in the fifth inning, received credit for the first victory, and Jim Bagby won his eighth victory in the nightcap, yielding the mound to Mike Naymick in the ninth.

The Tribe scored in the first inning of the afterpiece, without a hit. In the third inning, a seven-hit barrage produced seven runs, and the Indians added two more in the sixth.

Bagby gave up two runs in the fourth, and the Brownies added two more in the sixth when Nick Chartak homered with one on. Another tally in the seventh and two more in the ninth, when Bagby left for the showers, ended the St. Louis scoring.

1,687 at Playgrounds in Week

Attendance Regarded Satisfactory in Comparison With Figures for Other Cities; Horseshoe Tourney Set.

A check to determine whether city-supervised recreation programs in Newark and Columbus, O., and Chicago, Ill., are "in the same boat," as Marion's playground program as far as attendance is concerned revealed that in these cities playground attendance has fallen off anywhere from 20 to 50 per cent in comparison with previous years, City Recreation Supervisor Victor Dorris reported today.

Dorris personally contacted directors at Newark and Columbus last week and found that attendance in these Ohio cities is considerably lower than last year or in any previous season in the last five years. Swimming and softball have been the two most popular activities at playgrounds in either Columbus or Newark and also in Chicago. But since swimming pools are not located in any of the four playgrounds within the Marion recreation commission's jurisdiction, Director Dorris said he felt attendance for the Marion area was equivalent, or even slightly better, than any of the three cities figuring in the check-up.

Last Week's Figures

Attendance at the playgrounds last week totaled 1,687. The biggest turnout was at Lincoln park, where 630 were counted. A total of 390 registered at the Oakland Heights school building and Marion Steam Shovel Co. athletic field, 372 at McKinley park and 295 at Garfield park.

Supervisors of recreation in the three cities reported a "sad shortage" of equipment and playground instructors and also said labor was lacking to make needed repairs and improvements. Dorris said Marion is in about the same picture except that enough competent playground instructors are on duty. Much of the labor in the parks, he said, has been done by the instructors themselves. In the city's three principal parks he said recreation directors have helped the regular caretakers in many ways, helping with the cutting of grass, dragging and marking ball diamonds, scraping tennis, volleyball and croquet courts, rebuilding of horse shoe courts and repair of stationary playground equipment.

Horseshoe Tourney

Plans for a horseshoe tournament starting Aug. 9 and ending on Labor Day were announced by Dorris today. Two divisions have been set up, one for men over 17 years of age and the second for youths under 17. Prizes will be awarded to singles and doubles champions in each class, he said.

Registrations should be made with directors in any of the city's parks or with the director at the Marion Steam Chovel Co. athletic field. All preliminary matches must be played at the park where registration is made.

Preliminary games will be only 25 points in the senior division, or 21 in the junior division. Finals in the senior division will be 50 points. The winner of two out of three games will be declared the match winner.

Matches may be arranged at the convenience of the participants but must be held between 1 and 8 p. m. on any day except Sunday. Deadline for registering is 8 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 7.

Supervisors' Hours

Dorris again reminded Marion parents of the hours during which supervised recreation is in effect in the parks. He said park directors and assistants open the programs each day except Sunday at 1 p. m. and remain on duty until 8 p. m.

During this period two separate programs are conducted, one being for boys and girls of grade school, junior high and high school ages and the second for children of pre-school age.

Various types of sports activities are daily features for the former group along with special individual instruction in any special sports activity. Many of those frequenting the parks regularly have taken advantage of special instruction offered by the playground instructors. For instance at Lincoln park a large number of the boys have been instructed by Dorris, who is head football coach at Harding High school, in various phases of the grid sport. Regular classes have been held in punting, passing and a score of other basic details of the game.

For the pre-school group instruction in apparatus, sandcraft, croquet, singing, rope jumping and nature lore has been offered.

Red Cross Benefit Match Won by Golfers of Country Club

Score 37-32 Victory Over Mar-O-Del Players in First of Two Inter-Club Events; Benefit Yields $57.

The American Red Cross netted $57 in a benefit blind bogey tourney Sunday morning and the Country club golf team bested the Mar-O-Del linksmen in the first of two inter club matches this season, 37 to 32, at the Country club course. The bogey for Red Cross charity was incorporated in the inter-club event.

Five certificates signed by United States Golfing association officials were given out to the winners of the bogey tournament. These were certificates recognizing both the individual golfer's and his club's part in furthering the cause of the Red Cross. Three were awarded to Country club golfers and two to Mar-O-Del club swingers.

Prize Winners

The chief blind bogey prize was won by Mark Pinkerman who shot a net round of 85. He is a Country club representative. The Mar-O-Del golfers sponsored their own bogey tourney. It was won by John Rife, who made his last competitive appearance for the duration, with a net mark of 76. E. G. Siefert of the Country club took first honors in the low net division with 99-30—69. Herb Petrich of the Country club was given first place certificate in the low gross department with an 18 hole round of 83.

Each entrant in the bogey tourney was required to pay a $1 fee before he could tee off. There were 57 golfers representing both courses registering the event.

Rife, who is scheduled to join the Navy's Seabees tomorrow, took the spotlight from the rest of the low-scoring golfers in his match with Bill Schimmel, former Country club pro, now games chairman of the same layout. Both southpaw John and long-hitting Bill scored 81's to finish in a tie, each getting 1½ points.

Individual Scores

Other matches played in the inter-club match, which was won after a tight battle by the Country club, followed with the name of the Mar-O-Del golfer coming first, followed by his Country club opponent. The 18 hole rounds of each golfer is listed in parentheses, with the points won following that.

M. Coen (129) 0 vs. John Dowler (105) 3; N. England (98) 3 vs. Fred Sage (109) 0; Cliff Willis (84) 2½ vs. Dale Rose (86) ½; Morris (87) 3 vs. Judge H. S. Young (97) 0; Ben Wiant (97) 2 vs. E. G. Siefert (99) 1; W. J. Corrigan (104) 0 vs. R. T. Lewis (99) 3; Bob Graham (79) 3 vs. Jim Mayden (89) 0; Leo Oberlander (92) 0 vs. E. C. Dee (85) 3; Don Preuninger (88) 2½ vs. E. G. Haight (90) ½; John Rife (81) 1½ vs. Bill Schimmel (81) 1½; Ross Fogle (92) 2 vs. Bill Ulmer (93) 1; Marion Hinklin (109) 1 vs. M. Brickley (101) 1; Bob Baker (83) 1½ vs. Herb Petrich (83) 1½; Dick Norris (85) 2 vs. Jack Weis (86) 1; Gerald Partlow (92) 1½ vs. B. H. Buettin (93) 1½; Don McAnich (88) 3 vs. Leo Groll (91) 0; L. VanHorn (103) 0 vs. Henry Lautenslager (94) 3; M. Snyder (117) 0 vs. Harold Grigsby (112) 3; M. Fields (109) ½ vs. R. M. Cheney (108) 2½; and Compton (108) 1 vs. Bob Lautenslager (101) 2.

A return team match will be played within the next month, officials of both clubs announced today. This match will be played at the Mar-O-Del course on Route 23, just south of town. At that time, another blind bogey for the benefit of the Red Cross will be played in connection with the event.

Husband of Galion Woman Dies in Africa

Special to The Star

GALION, July 19—Friends in this city have received word of the death of Pvt. H. Dougless Smith, husband of the former Elnora Bland of this city. Pvt. Smith was killed March 31 while serving with tank corps in North Africa. He joined the Canadian army about two years ago and after Pearl Harbor was transferred to the American forces. Mr. and Mrs. Smith resided in Miami, Fla. Only a few weeks before he was killed in North Africa, Smith took part in one of the British broadcasting company's weekly broadcasts to the United States, originating from London.

MARRIED AT CRESTLINE

Special to The Star

GALION, July 19—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weber are making their home on a farm near Windfall, following their marriage Friday evening in the parsonage of the Calvary Reformed church in Crestline. The Rev. W. L. Margard officiated.

The bride, the former Mary Ellen Christman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christman of near Galion, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weber of Route 1, Crestline.

ROME

cultural monuments are located.

The communique declared that the principal target of the raid was the railway marshalling yard in the capital, which, it said, "is of the greatest importance to the axis war effort and in particular for the movement of German troops."

The attack was carried out, the announcement said, by both heavy and medium bombers of the Mediterranean air command. Leaflets also were dropped over the eternal city by the raiders.

Rome, a city of approximately 900,000, is situated on the west coast of the Italian mainland about midway of the long, narrow peninsula.

It is about 350 miles from the nearest point on the North African coast.

The brief communique announcing the raid said:

"Military objectives in Rome and its vicinity have been bombed today by heavy bombers and medium bombers of the Mediterranean air command. The marshalling yard was the principal target. It is of the greatest importance to the axis war effort and in particular for the movement of German troops.

Leaflets Dropped

"Leaflets also were dropped over the city prior to the raid. Pilots and bombardiers employed on this mission were particularly instructed to avoid damaging religious and cultural monuments."

The allied leaflets which were dropped with the bombs told the people "we leave it to your intelligence to decide whether it is likely we should waste our efforts on targets, the destruction of which for our purposes * * * you will be able to see for yourselves."

Allied headquarters emphasized that Rome is one of four focal points of railway transportation in Italy. Naples, Bologna and Foggia—the other three—already have been bombed heavily on scores of occasions.

To prevent axis supplies from going through the supposedly safe Rome route, the capital was attacked.

The leaflets reminded the Italians that "over a period of years Mussolini designedly brought more and more war plants and arsenals to Rome "where weapons are built to kill allied soldiers."

(The Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press in London, quoted a Rome broadcast as saying the raid was heavy and concentrated.

Text of Leaflets

(The Algiers broadcast said that leaflets warning of the impending raid were dropped over Rome Friday night. The text of the leaflets were given as follows:

("Military objectives in the area of Rome will be bombed by allied planes.

("When this will happen the Fascist government will try and tell you that we have attempted to destroy those ancient cultural monuments that are besides Rome's pride the pride of the whole world.

("Furthermore it is possible that the Germans and Fascists themselves might drop bombs over Rome and even over the Vatican in order to try and make you believe that the allies aimed at and bombed them.

("Our only targets will be military and special objectives which have been selected for their special use to the German army. Our pilots have been trained and as far as possible all other targets will be avoided.

("It may happen that some bombs might be dropped outside chosen targets. This however will not have been done on purpose. Our raids will be carried out as far as possible in daylight and you yourselves will be able to check the accuracy of our pilots.") and Nomb and many fires were raging.

SICILY

A headquarters announcement said Catania's defenders were suffering heavily in killed and captured. In all Sicily some 30,000 prisoners have been taken, 20,000 of them by Americans, since the invaders landed nine days ago.

In a flanking move around Catania, allied forces striking inland from the coast were reported aiming at the Gerbini airbase network 12 miles west of Catania.

Mighty allied bomber fleets delivered a virtual knockout blow Saturday to Naples in an attack designed to shut off supplies to axis forces in Sicily. An official announcement said the raid, carried out by some 500 bombers, was the heaviest concentrated aerial blow at this theater.

The Messina ferry connection at the northeastern tip of the island already is virtually useless as a supply entry port because of steady allied bombing attacks.

(The Algiers radio broadcast a report that axis headquarters had been moved across the strait of Messinia to Reggio Calabria at the toe of the mainland.)

One Hot Dish for a Hot Day

By BETSY NEWMAN

One hot dish, a cool, crisp salad and a dessert, is enough for any one on a hot day. If you have bought a good sized piece of ham, use some of it for a "Ham and Egg Pie."

MENU

Ham and Egg Pie, Crisp Tossed Salad, Lemon and Cherry Blocks, Coffee or Tea.

Ham and Egg Pie

Three-fourths lb. or 2 cups cooked ham, 2 tbsps. chopped onion, ¼ c. chopped celery, 2 c. milk, 3 tbsps. margarine or butter, 6 tbsps. flour, 1¼ tsp. salt, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 2 tbsps. chopped green pepper.

Brown onions and celery in margarine, add flour; add milk; gradually, stir and cook until thick, then season. Add eggs cut in quarters, green pepper, cubed ham, and place in casserole dish and cover with cheese-biscuit crust.

Crust: 1 c. sifted flour, ½ tsp. salt, 2 tsp. baking powder, ¼ c. grated cheese, 2 tbsps. lard, ½ to 1-3 c. milk.

Mix cheese with dry ingredients; make biscuit dough as usual. Pat dough into circle to cover baking dish, cut into pie shaped wedges and place slightly apart over mixture and bake at 400 degrees F. 30 minutes until crust is golden brown. Serves 4 or 5.

Lemon and Cherry Blocks

One pkg. lemon flavored gelatin, 1 pkg. cherry flavored gelatin, hot or warm water, fruit juice.

Prepare lemon and cherry flavored gelatin according to directions on package, using canned fruit syrup for part of liquid. Pour into separate shallow pans, chill thoroughly. Dip knife into hot water, cut gelatin in 1-inch cubes, pile lightly into sherbets.

Mrs. Mary F. Smith Rites Held at Crestline

CRESTLINE, July 19 — Mrs. Mary Florence Smith, 65, widow of Joseph Smith died Saturday at the Shelby Memorial hospital.

She was born March 30, 1858. Her husband preceded her in death 20 years ago and she resided with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crail near Bucyrus.

Survivors are one son Russel Smith of Tiro, two daughters, Mrs. C. W. Eckstein of southeast of Crestline, and Mrs. Crall of near Bucyrus.

MARKET HOLDS BALANCE TODAY

Forward Swing in Evidence Although Some Leaders Show Declines.

NEW YORK, July 19—Selective forward swings enabled the stock market to keep its balance today but many leaders languished at slightly lower levels or were at a standstill.

Medium-priced oils and other issues with good peace prospects seemed buoyed by the exceptionally encouraging war news. British forces, though, were somewhat depressed by the fact that the list, as a whole, failed to respond and a little further profit taking on last week's rise to peaks since 1939 was in evidence from the start.

Registering new tops for the year or longer were Pure Oil, Ohio Oil, Standard Oil (New Jersey), U. S. Lines, American Telephone, North American, Yellow Truck and Caterpillar Tractor. Laggards included allied chemical, U. S. Steel, New York Central, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Goodyear Kennecott and Union Carbide.

Revival of petroleum company securities was variously attributed to persistent hopes that the government eventually would permit a boost in crude rates as a means of stimulating greater production and exploration.

ALL GRAINS DOWN IN HEAVY SELLING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 19—All grains backed down today on a renewal of the steady liquidation which characterized trading last week. Minor attempts at rallies failed and prices were around their lows of the day going into the final minutes of trading.

Hedging pressure was apparent in wheat, reflecting heavy receipts at principal terminals. Weakness in rye was pronounced as stop-loss orders were uncovered on the down grade. Selling of oats came from the northwest and weakness at Minneapolis unsettled the local market.

Army Nurses Get Tough

Strenuous Field Work Is Part of Training.

By MARGARET KERNODLE
Associated Press Writer

ON MANEUVERS in Kentucky —The thermometer touched 102 in the sun while the Army Nurses hiked cross-country, and I tagged along.

They hiked over fences and across gullies four miles in 48 minutes. While they crawled head down from a gully, I gained myself to the ground inconspicuously in my brown Army togs for a rest. Not only until Chief Nurse Rhoda Prid missed me. Then I joined this merciless marching gang again.

Back at the 27th Evacuation hospital they operated daily through eight hours of tent-ward duty as methodically as they marched two hours a day.

I struggled along several days with these Army Nurses, who will go to war zones when the Army rates them rough and ready.

At night I slept wearily without a dream on a canvas cot. Beating the 11 o'clock curfew to bed was the fastest thing I did.

One starlight night I did brave a USO movie in a meadow while I sprawled exhausted on an Army blanket with a helmet for a pillow. The next day I balanced that helmet between my feet while I washed my shirt in it; the way the nurses do.

Hardly a Victory Gardener could vie with our spades and picks at parting permanently neat pleated ground to fit a slit trench to our figures.

Nor would anybody seeing this hospital unit, organized at the University of Illinois, ever expect an Army Nurse to be startled by a servant shortage. A woman here carries toothbrush water from a central canvas tank to her tent, washes her own mess kit three times a day the thorough Army way, never has a napkin, rakes (not sweeps) the dirt floor of her tent.

SHE delights in a dressing table which tomorrow will be the packing box when orders come to move again. These nurses moved five times in six weeks during earlier maneuvers, just to get the hang of moving.

A gas mask drill here reduces recollections of metropolitan air raid drills to surprising simplicity. Getting gas masks on everybody and rushing those who can be moved to safer spots, maybe several miles away, are just parts of the indoctrination for nurses as non-combatants who can never run from bombs.

When I dawdled out of breath behind the briskly stepping Army Nurses, it wasn't hard to believe they'd passed physical tests with an average of 80.5, ten points higher than the Army average. Their tests included 150 yards pickaback, several 20-second races, including one on knees and elbows.

I was surprised to see skilled city women, like these nurses, able to take such tough training for overseas duty—and like it, even keep their sense of humor.

The best boner of the week brought laughs from everybody. After marching with full pack (gas mask, first aid kit, murette bag, canteen and clothes), the chief nurse ordered all nurses to report at 8:30 "in blue shirts, leggings and nothing else."

What the Australians Eat

BY ALICE DENHOFF

We've been reading some letters lately from men stationed in Australia. They rhapsodize over the country and the wonderful hospitality shown them and there is lots of praise for Australia's famous kangaroo-tail soup. Well, we just couldn't let any such outlandish culinary allusion go by without learing more about it. So we tackled the most famous Australian we know and demanded to know all about the kangaroo-tail soup.

We not only got the recipe, except for a necessary substitution, but we were invited to sample the soup by Marjorie Lawrence, the famous Australia soprano of the Metropolitan Opera. It seems that Miss Lawrence is a really good cook and she specializes in some of the dishes she knew as a child in Australia.

Soup Recipe

Ox-tail is substituted for the famous kangaroo-tail in the soup, but otherwise the recipe is fairly correct. Cut up one ox-tail into pieces after washing thoroughly. Place in pot with 2 tablespoons butter or substitute one small sliced onion and one thinly sliced garlic kernel. Braise and stir well to prevent sticking. Add 4½ cups water, one carrot, one turnip, one leek and one stalk celery all sliced, also one bay leaf, 4 cloves, salt and pepper to taste. Stir occasionally over full flame for 10 minutes, skimming well when it comes to a boil. Then simmer gently for 3 to 4 hours, or until tail is tender. Remove the ox-tail, strain the soup, thicken with flour. Add slice ham and tablespoon ketchup, heat again and serve piping hot.

Veal Australian is so good, says Miss Lawrence that it is worth saving up ration points to have it now and again. It certainly is a splendid veal recipe, for we sampled it. Melt in a baking pan 2 or 3 tablespoons beef drippings. In it place one cut of veal cutlet about 2 or 3 pounds. Salt and pepper well. Over this slice a pound of tomatoes, sprinkle kernel garlic finely sliced over tomatoes and add ½ can tomato soup and one cup water. Place in 375F oven and let cook until baked, about an hour. Now prepare one pound string beans with one large sliced onion in butter or drippings for 10 minutes. Then push the onions and string beans to one side of the pan and in the cleared space place 2 tablespoons flour, keeping the pan half off the fire so that the flame is only under the flour. Stir flour around until it is well browned then add other ½ can soup and one cup water. Mix all together with the beans and onion. When all is boiling, remove from fire and add to meat in baking dish and let bake 20 minutes to ½ hour. Potatoes baked around the meat ads the final touch to a superb dish. Now for a favorite dessert with the Australian singer, Apricot Souffle is made with 6 apricots, fresh or canned. If fresh fruit is used, peel, halve and mash very fine. For canned fruit, drain, mash and put through sieve. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff, fold in tablespoon sugar and the fruit. Pour into greased baking dish, set in pan of hot water and bake at 350F about 20 minutes, or until firm. Serve at once. Makes six small portions. A custard sauce goes well with this dessert.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Haskins and party went fishing in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. They fished and fished. Didn't catch a thing. They went swimming in the stream. Haskins spied an automobile tire on the stream's bed. He came up with it, thinking it might be better than his own. From the tire came two nice bass—the only catch of the day!

WOMAN FINED $25

Mrs. Ada Cooper, 33, who court officials said has been in Marion only for the last two weeks, was fined $25 and costs in municipal court today following her arrest by city police at 3:00 p. m. Saturday on Bryant street on a charge of disorderly conduct. Judge Hazen told her he would suspend the fine and costs if she would leave the city by nightfall.

YOUTH DROWNS IN LAKE

CLEVELAND, O., July 19 — Manfred Tichauer, 18, of Cleveland, was drowned in Lake Erie near the mouth of Chagrin river late yesterday. A companion, a girl who could not swim, said Tichauer was helping her return to shore when a heavy wave swept him off his feet.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MY FATHER considered Adams' question for a second, then made a swift decision.

"You'd better tell him everything you heard and saw just as it occurred," he said, "for one thing is certain. Milner will get in touch with Ruth Hayes as soon as possible, and she will tell him what happened. If you vary from her version, he might suspect that you are working for me, and that would be fatal to our plans.

"Tell him," he went on, "that you don't know the reason for any of the proceedings, but that the lady suddenly dashed out on the balcony. Repeat just what my daughter and son-in-law said, and tell him that you brought the lady back into the room. Repeat as much of the subsequent conversation as you can remember, and explain that you finally escorted the caller to the taxi. Tell him that what I wanted of you was the assurance that she had gone, and that then I dismissed you with thanks."

Adams Is Relieved

Adams' face cleared. "That ought to do the trick," he said. "And she really did get into the taxi and drive away. But I'm not so sure—"

My father finished the sentence for him, as his voice trailed away uncertainly.

"That she won't come back again? Neither am I. So I think you'd better tell Milner that I asked you both to come back and mount guard in this room and on the balcony until daylight. Tell him I didn't tell you why I wanted you to come back, and that you haven't the faintest idea why you're wanted.

"Incidentally, you'd better correct one statement you made to him," he consumed with the infinite attention to detail which characterizes him. "You see the lady never saw me, so you'd better say that you remember now it was Mrs. Graham not I, who told you to put the lady in the taxi. Say, also, that while you received your original order for the balcony from me, you didn't see me again until you came back here, that it was my son-in-law who told you to report back here, but that I previously had told you I wanted to see you as soon as your job of watching was finished."

"I understand," Adams said, "and I'll get it straight, sir."

The Guards Leave

"I'm sure you will," my father told him, and then the two men left for their interview with Milner, and we all relaxed into our chairs again.

"Do you really think, Dad, that she'll try anything more tonight?" Dicky asked.

"No, I don't," he replied. "I think she's pretty well deflated, but there's no use leaving any loopholes for either her or Milner."

He looked at his wrist watch, then at me.

"The curtain has rung down, my dear," he said, smiling, but with a note in his voice which I knew meant that he was to be obeyed. "You've had a box seat, and you've also played an active part well. Now it's time for you to go to bed. You'll only have a few hours' sleep at the most."

"I slept, you know, on the couch here," I protested feebly.

Orders Made to Rest

"Yes, I know, but now you're going into your bedroom and get some real rest," he said inexorably. "Richard can camp on the couch here when he and I get through with Adams and Winters, and I'll go over to my own suite. We'll meet early in the morning. Better have the operator call you."

"I'll do that," I said obediently, rising and kissing both of them. "Good night."

I went into my bedroom, with that feeling of relaxation and content at being "bossed" with kindly solicitude, which I think sometimes comes to every woman, no matter how self-centered and independent she may be. And when, after making all preparations for quick dressing in the morning, and giving my call to the operator, I climbed into bed, not even the remembrance of the exciting scene I had just passed through could keep sleep from my eyes. I knew nothing more until the bell of the telephone at the head of my bed, roused me.

"Six-thirty, Mrs. Graham," the voice of the operator said, and then as I thanked her and put the receiver up again, I saw Katharine standing in the remodeled doorway of the other suite.

Pulled Door Ajar

"I guessed you'd be putting in a call," she said, "so after I was pretty sure you were asleep, I pulled this door ajar, so I'd hear the call, too. What can I do for you?"

"Not a thing," I told her, "I have everything ready for my trip. Oh, yes, you can order breakfast for three—Dicky, you and me—in the living room of the other suite. I'll go in and waken Dicky now. Then he can tell me what he wants."

"All right," she said. "I'll just shower while you're gone. Then you can use that shower and Dicky can have the one in this suite."

"That ought to work beautifully," I said, and went into the living room where I found Dicky already awake and staring at the ceiling.

"Hello!" he said. "Here's a thought that woke me up. Are you sure that maid disguise of yours is going to be fool proof? For if Ruth Hayes ever spots you, it'll be curtains for you!"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Enteritis

Summer complaint of infants is much more serious than a complaint. It constitutes a medical emergency and the mother should seek medical advice at the earliest possible moment. In former days these summer diarrheas were the basic cause of our tremendous infantile death rate.

This has largely been overcome, thanks to dairy inspection and pasteurization of milk, but it is by no means completely conquered, and the appearance of fretfulness, restlessness, refusal to nurse, with fever and diarrhea in an infant is still, as has been said above, a medical emergency.

Such conditions—digestive upsets in general—in infants are, however, not always necessarily due to infected milk.

The newborn infant particularly is susceptible to digestive disturbances because one or the other of its various systems is still in the formative stage and is not working to perfection. Thus a very common digestive upset of the newborn, particularly the premature infant, is due to deficient stomach secretion.

This may allow undigested food to get into the intestines. Especially it may allow pathogenic germs to get into the intestines because the normal secretion of the stomach is acid and tends to kill off or inhibit the growth of these organisms. When the secretion is deficient, they go on into the intestine and produce all the symptoms of ordinary summer complaint—vomiting, fever, voluminous watery stools full of mucus, but no pus.

The newborn infant is particularly likely to infection of certain kinds. It has some passive immunity, derived from the mother to such contagious diseases as measles and chickenpox, which protects it from them for six months or more, but to intestinal infection it has very low immunity. So the utmost precautions are not too much to keep its protection high.

Of course, the food itself may be irritating, depending on the individual infant's susceptibility. Even mother's milk is at times to blame—there are frequent instances of laxatives being excreted in the breast milk and producing a diarrhea. Some infants cannot stand the slightest excess of fats, and some cannot stand an excess of starch and sugars. Overfeeding may be the simple cause of some infantile digestive upsets, but I should say this is rare. The infant has more sense than the adult, often, and simply mouths the excess out.

Again, the infant's body is very labile as regards water, body fluid and salt balance. The kidneys often take some time to make adjustments and these imbalances of fluid are a frequent and obvious cause of digestive upsets.

The treatment is usually plain after the cause has been found, but it is a sufficiently serious condition to call for the best medical advice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. C.: What are the symptoms of chronic mastitis? What is the usual age for it to occur?

Answer: Chronic mastitis shows plain and stringy, hard deposits in the breast. The age of onset is 30 to 50.

L. T.: What is meant by a "Strumpel" type when speaking of a rheumatoid arthritis of the spine?

Answer: The "Marie-Strumpel" type of spondylitis was named after the two men who first described it. It affects the entire spine and is very deforming.

WHISKEY BARREL BUOYS

By International News Service

ST. LOUIS—The Coast Guard at St. Louis has found a new use for whiskey barrels and other casks. They will be adapted to replace the all-metal buoys now guiding river boats, and thus will conserve steel and lower production costs. The first barrel buoy is now in service on the Mississippi, in fast water at Chain of Rocks, opposite North St. Louis.
